Goats Help Rid Elm Grove Park of Invasive Plants

By Lisabeth Passalis-Bain / elmgrovenews@yahoo.com

Funded by a grant from the Elm Grove Junior Guild, approximately 40 goats, large, small, multi-colored, and definitely lively, arrived at Elm Grove Village Park on the afternoon of Monday, May 23, hopped out of their large transport trailer, and went immediately to work chewing the leaves of invasive Buckthorn to help manage its spread.

Aggressive Buckthorn destroys wildlife habitats and food sources. Reducing it encourages the growth of native plants.

The Village of Elm Grove and its Beautification Committee invited the Grazing Goats of Whitewater <https://www.grazinggoatswisconsin.com> to feed initially on a 1 acre area on the east side of the park and pond for several days. The animals were penned in a solar-powered electric fence that could be moved as portions of the land were cleared.

Facts about “goat grazing” provided by the Committee include: “Goats work quickly because are always hungry. Their job is to eat and they do it very efficiently. They work quietly because they are mostly chewing. The goats leave behind valuable pre-pelleted droppings that serve as composting fertilizer that benefits plants. The goat crew is a more environmentally safe alternative over more traditional methods of cutting and treating invasive species with chemicals.”

Jon Clemens

New Village Recreation Director Appointed

By Lisabeth Passalis-Bain
elmgrovenews@yahoo.com

The Village of Elm Grove in April announced the selection of Jon Clemens as Recreation Director, following the resignation of Jarod Mikkelsen who held the position for several years.

Clemens noted that he “grew up in Elm Grove, spent many summers playing in the park, and my parents and sister still live in the village. I currently live in New Berlin with my wife Stephanie, daughter Charlotte and our dog Clara.”

Following his graduation from Carroll University in 2011 with a major in Recreation Management, he worked in recreation departments for the City of Brookfield and West Bend, and, for the past 7 years, served as Youth Sports Director for the Waukesha YMCA.

“I always have been a big sports fan especially local sports and youth sports. I look forward to coaching my daughter as she gets older,” Jon said.

His goals as Recreation Director are “to provide quality and affordable programs, activities and events for the residents of the Village of Elm Grove” adding, “I am very excited to work for the Village I grew up in and work in the park I spent so much time in as a child.”

Elm Grove Boy Finds 250 Million-Year-Old Fossil in Backyard

“My son Miles McFadden was helping his dad with yard work on Mother’s Day, May 8th, 2022, when an interesting rock (weighing in at 4.2 lbs.) caught his attention,” wrote his mother, Emily McFadden, in an e-mail to The News-Independent.

“Miles”, she noted “is enthusiastic about science – particularly geology and paleontology – so he knew he found a fossil. Working together with me and the internet, we formed a hypothesis that it was a Trilobite. After sharing photos with multiple geologists, it has been confirmed that this small impression is that of a Trilobite.”

Trilobites were a group of crab-like animals with hard exoskeletons and a three-lobed body. They are marine animals that have been extinct for over 250,000,000 years, according to The Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey.

Miles, a kindergartner at Tonawanda, is understandably excited about finding a fossil from Pangea in his own backyard. “This creature was around 100 million years before T-Rex. I wonder what else is in my backyard,” he said.

“Miles’s previous paleontological finds at our Elm Grove home on Marquette Avenue include a rabbit skeleton,” Emily said, so additional finds may be just outside his door.

And what does Miles plan to do with his latest discovery? “If any museum wants to display it, that’d be great. If not, I’ll probably put it in my room,” Miles explained.

“I’m proud of him. I hope his curiosity for our natural world continues to grow,” said Emily. “I’m certain there will be a lot more mud and rocks in our future.”

June 20-26 is Pollinator Week

How to Address Mosquitos, Protect Pollinators

(ELM GROVE) Looking for a simple and effective way to target mosquitoes in your yard? Chances are that what you have been doing may also be negatively impacting important pollinators.

Traditional mosquito control practices target the insects at the adult stage by periodically spraying with high concentrations of insecticides that kill all insects, not just mosquitoes. That results in a loss of beneficial insects, such as bees and butterflies and their larva. Insects are at the base of the food web; and without them, birds and other creatures that rely on insects as food are challenged to find enough food for themselves and their young. When sprayed insects are eaten, the insecticide can build up in predators and affect their health.

The Elm Grove Beautification Committee suggests this simple, safe and effective alternative approach that targets mosquitoes at the larval stage:

- * Fill a five-gallon bucket halfway with water, and place it in a sunny place in your yard.
- * Add about 3-4 handfuls of hay or straw to the bucket. After a few days, the resulting brew is irresistible to gravid (egg-filled) female mosquitos.

* After the mosquitos have laid their eggs, add a commercially available Mosquito Dunk tablet that contains Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt), a natural larvicide, to your bucket. The eggs will hatch and the larvae will die. The Mosquito Dunk that is added has a biological bacterial control that ONLY affects mosquitos.

* After a few days, you can strain out the old organic matter and Mosquito Dunk (if there is any obvious solid left) and toss the organic matter into your compost pile or trash.

With this approach, you control mosquitos – and only mosquitos – without the use of harmful insecticides.

Purchasing a Mosquito Dunk

The Elm Grove Beautification Committee has two opportunities for you to purchase a Mosquito Dunk for $3 each or 2 for $5, and they’ll provide you with free hay:

Saturday, June 4, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Plant Sale at the Park & Shop parking lot on Watertown Plank Road.

Sunday, June 26, 11 a.m. to Noon at the Village Park’s Monarch Waystation located near the pond’s boat launch.

Village Update

By Neil Palmer, President – Village of Elm Grove / npalmer@elmgroviewi.org

On Tuesday, May 31, 2022, (5-31-22) residents are invited to gather in Village Park and celebrate Elm Grove Zip Code Day. The Beer Garden will be open, there will be food, music, activities for children and adults.

Village residents are in for a nice surprise when the Swimming Pool opens on Saturday, June 4th. The changing rooms and restrooms have new partitions, new lighting, new flooring, and benches. New showers, along with “No Touch” soap dispensers, hand dryers and flushers have been installed. Power washing, steam cleaning of all interior surfaces along with fresh paint brightens all areas of the building.

I am sure everyone has noticed that “road construction season” is in full swing in Wisconsin now, and in Elm Grove we will be paving Watertown Plank Road from Highland to Pilgrim and paving a new pathway along the east side of Elm Grove Road between Watertown Plank Road and Juneau Boulevard. Patching of roads will also be performed in numerous areas.

Many Village residents have joined the “No Mow May” effort to support pollinators. Allowing all or part of your yard to grow and remain herbicide, pesticide, and fertilizer free will provide food sources for early emerging bee species. Typical lawn floral species, including importantly dandelions, can help feed the more than 30 bee species present in our area and other arthropods. For those who aren’t fond of bugs please remember that these pollinators are themselves a critical food source for young songbirds. Lack of habitat providing food, impacts of insecticides and cats are the leading causes of the huge decline in bird species.

The Village Board held a productive Committee of the Whole meeting on May 18th to discuss the status of proposed projects and issues.

- New Trustees were briefed on plans to “Daylight Underwood Creek” through the Park & Shop area to complete the Flood Control Project begun in 2005. The Village has received $500,000 in grants and continues to apply for additional grants. Most recent estimates anticipate costs of about $4.5 million. Current plans assume the start of construction in 2023 and completion in 2024. In addition to seeking additional grants, state and federal permits are needed.
- The Board members also discussed options to improve the state of Village roads. Current plans endorsed by the Public Works Committee outline $10 million in road work over the next 10 years.
- President Palmer outlined a proposal to form an Ad Hoc Committee on EMS and Fire Service to evaluate options on how to continue providing these critical services. All Board members spoke of the importance of this effort.
- The Board also discussed how the requirement to hold referendum elections for any public works project expenditure of $1million or more. All public works projects go through a process of review which includes early cost estimates and initial design. If the Village Board decides to continue to move a project forward more specific engineering and pricing are developed. The variance in pricing makes it important to recognize that possible need for a referendum. A possible referendum itself has its own schedule needed to draft and approve referendum language and the required 75-day notice to the County for ballot preparation. In addition, the Board recognized the importance of providing resources and time to inform residents of the proposed referendum projects.

Mandel Development reports that work is proceeding to develop construction plans, contractor bid packages, and financing for redevelopment of the School Sisters of Notre Dame campus. Notre Dame Hall and Maria Hall will be restored and preserved, and demolition of the other “newer” buildings is projected to begin in early Fall of 2022 with construction of new buildings following.

The Village Board unanimously supported a proclamation to celebrate National Pollinator Week during June 20th through 26th, 2022. The Proclamation recognizes the importance of all pollinators in maintaining healthy and biodiverse ecosystems. The Village seeks manage Village lands and habitats in a sustainable manner and to encourage property owners to do the same.

The Proclamation, dated and signed May 23, 2022, states:

“WHEREAS, pollinators such as thousands of species of bees, are essential partners in producing much of our food supply; and

WHEREAS, pollinators provide significant environmental benefits that are necessary for maintaining healthy, diverse ecosystems in towns and cities; and

WHEREAS, pollination plays a vital role for the trees and plants of our community, enhancing our quality of life and creating recreational and economic development opportunities; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Elm Grove manages parks, public landscaping and other public lands that may include greenways and wildlife habitats; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Elm Grove provides recommendations to developers and residents regarding landscaping to promote wise conservation stewardship, including the protection of pollinators and maintenance of their habitats;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Neil Palmer, Village President of Elm Grove, do hereby proclaim the 20th through the 26th of June, 2022 as our Village’s observance of National Pollinator Week, and, as Elm Grove is an affiliate of Bee City USA, so urge all citizens to recognize this observance.

Remembrances of Things Past

A Soo Line caboose parked in Elm Grove more than a decade ago.

WHATZZIT?

By Stephen K. Hauser

This “Whatzzit?” will be easy for many readers to quickly identify, but might be a bit more difficult for some younger folks who are not model railroad buffs. It’s a Soo Line caboose, parked on the railroad siding that once crossed the entrance to the Elm Grove Public Works yards and dump at the end of Wall Street.

At once time, a caboose would announce the end of nearly every freight train as it passed. It served as a rolling work station for railroad crews and also could transport company personnel to a work site. There were about 35,000 of them rolling down American rails in the 1920s and 1930s, and about 20,000 were still in use in 1970. By the early 1990s, however, people began to notice that fewer freight trains still included them. As older cabooses were retired, the cost of constructing new ones had risen to about $80,000 apiece.

In a time of changing technology, railroads determined that maintaining a “rolling work station” was no longer necessary for their employees. So, as a cost-saving measure, the old railroad caboose was to be phased out. Nowadays, outside of railroad museums, a caboose is seldom seen in action on the tracks.

As for the Soo Line railroad, the company, founded in 1961, was absorbed as a subsidiary of the Canadian Pacific (CP) Railway in 1990. The remaining functional Soo Line rolling stock was systematically repainted, replacing the old Soo Line red-and-white colors with the CO logo and paint scheme. Older cars were sold off or sent to the scrap heap.

The photo shown above was taken during the summer of 2009 as a work crew was engaged in removing the siding and crossing. The caboose was employed as a work station for the project. By that fall, both the Caboose and the siding were gone.

Stephen K. Hauser is a retired college history professor and a longtime village resident.

WORLD-FAMED DAIRY WOMAN IN PRESCOTT

Stops to Visit Sister en route to take Charge at San Francisco

Mrs. Adda F. Howie is in Prescott, Arizona. Who is Mrs. Howie did you ask? In answer to which question it may be said she is one of the most famous women in the United States—one about whom more has been written and printed in this and foreign countries than about any other woman now living and who is engaged in an industrial pursuit for the benefit of the country and humanity in general. And so, it is noted that she has been talked about on both sides of the Atlantic, and pictures of herself and some of her famous Jerseys have been published on both sides of the Atlantic and pictures have been published in most leading publications of this country and England. And this is not in vain, for she is now en route to the San Francisco Panama Exposition under the auspices of the International Congress of farm women.

Roses For You

By Joanne Clauser

Delicate vines connect striking pink roses.
A fine line of silver graces each cup, saucer, and plate boarder.
My beautiful set of bone china for twelve, doesn’t fit today’s world.
A set of six cups, saucers, and dessert plates are plenty,
as I only entertain groups of four or six any longer.

Time to let my roses grace

Elm Grove Birdathon --Birders of the Grove Recap

By Karen Lloyd

The “Birders of the Grove” met on Saturday morning, May 14, 2022, for the second annual Birdathon celebration at Elm Grove Village Park. Participants checked in at our station set up by the group of bird feeders outside the library entrance. Bird species check lists were provided to the walkers, as well as additional information about our “High Flyer” Bird City efforts in Elm Grove. We had a raffle for participants with a cottage style bird feeder as the prize – our excited winner was a nine-year-old village resident!

We were very lucky to have ideal spring weather for our bird watching walk. Included in our park sightings were numerous red-winged blackbirds, several yellow warblers, Canada geese, and a red-tailed hawk with a nest high in the trees. Our team participants continued their counts in their own backyards and other venues. Overall, the total number of birds seen by our team was 250, with a species count of 51! Our most notable sightings were a red-eyed vireo, a tiny new sandhill crane with its parents, a scarlet tanager, a ruby-crowned kinglet, 11 Baltimore orioles, 8 ruby throated hummingbirds, an eastern bluebird, and a cedar waxwing.

Our team is delighted to have exceeded our fundraising goal for this event; this will enable us to continue educating village residents about bird protection efforts and provide funding for Bird City projects in our community. Donations can be made through June 15th—50% of all money raised will be returned to support our efforts within the village. Donate here: <https://charity.pledgeit.org/WIBirdathon2022> or by searching 2022 Great Wisconsin Birdathon and choosing our team.

If you are interested in joining our group, the next meeting is scheduled for June 13th at 9 a.m. in the Village Hall Park View room. We hope to see you there!

Updated Village Directory to be Distributed

(ELM GROVE) Spring brings flowers, gentle breezes, and the newest edition of the Elm Grove Village Directory. Produced and brought to you by the women of the Elm Grove Woman’s Club, the publication is a cooperative effort of members of the Woman’s Club, villagers’ survey responses, and valued local and surrounding area businesses.

Because there have been no changes in the printed version of the village map since 2013, it is suggested that residents continue to refer to the map included in the 2019-2021 edition. New residents may pick up a map at the Village Hall.

This 40th edition of the directory is a biennial offering to connect neighbors and promote community.

The Directory cover (at right) features the artwork of Elm Grove resident and EGWC member Kay Noel.

By Anita Alfaro

Goldie is a very special senior needing HELP! She is looking for a soft, warm place to spend her senior years. Goldie is a 12+ year old beautiful golden color girl that has found herself in a shelter sadly after her owner passed away. She is a quiet girl who was in the home since she was 5 weeks old. Goldie is crate trained, loves her crate and because she was in a home with multiple dogs often was crated often in the past. Don’t let her age fool you, she loves to run and go for walks. She’s also a quiet girl and we haven’t heard a peep out of her yet! She is lonely and sad in the shelter and has had some loose stools as she tries to adjust to all these changes. A full medical work up shows she is healthy. She would do best as an only dog per her previous guardian. Can you help? If interested in Goldie, Call (262) 782-9261 or visit <https://ebhs.org>.

Donate Blood at Tonawanda - June 14th

By Sarah Wynia-Smith, Communications Chair – Elm Grove Junior Guild

The Elm Grove Junior Guild, in partnership with Tonawanda Elementary and Versiti Blood Center of Wisconsin, is hosting a blood drive on June 14th in Tonawanda’s new gymnasium at 13605 UNDERWOOD RIVER PKWY, ELM GROVE, WI 53122, with appointments available between 2-7 p.m. Why should you donate blood at our drive? Why, I’ll give you ten great reasons!

1. Currently, due to the pandemic and other disruptions, the United States is under a state of EMERGENCY with blood supplies often having less than a single day’s inventory.
2. Blood and blood products cannot be created or imitated in a lab. Human donors are the ONLY way these lifesaving infusions can happen.
3. A single transplant operation can use more than 50 individual units of blood. This is the equivalent of an entire large-scale blood drive.
4. Cancer patients often get platelet infusions during treatment. Platelets are one of the components derived from a whole blood donation.
5. Trauma patients, birthing mothers, and surgery patients may receive red blood cell transfusions to save their lives in emergency situations. This is one of the three components of a whole blood donation.
6. Burn patients and people with blood clotting disorders can need plasma infusions. This is one of the three components of a whole blood donation.
7. At the start of the donation process, each potential donor receives a health screening and mini-physical, which can inform you of other health issues you should be aware of.

8. Blood donated with Versiti Blood Center of Wisconsin is the sole supplier which provides the local blood supply in southeast Wisconsin. Donating with them gives back locally!
 9. Knowing one in seven people entering the hospital will need blood products, there is a high likelihood you or a loved one will need a blood product some day. Donating pays this blessing forward to others!
 10. All blood donors will get free snacks and warm fuzzies after donation, knowing they have saved up to three lives with their donation!
- Appointments are very strongly encouraged. Make an appointment online by visiting <https://bit.ly/ElmGroveJuniorGuild061422> or by scanning the QR code.

Elmbrook Rotary Project Aids School in Guatemala

By Erik Moeser

Elmbrook Rotary Club has sent teams to Guatemala in February of every year since 2012 to work with Common Hope. Common Hope is a St. Paul-based NGO, offering housing, medical, social, and educational services. In 2021 and 2022 the trips were cancelled due to the global pandemic. Because the clients whom Common Hope serves are largely unvaccinated, one way to continue helping has been remotely via Zoom and email.

In 2021 Elmbrook Rotary (assisted by a grant from Rotary International District 6270) provided books, supplemental materials, desks, and supplies for students in the remote village of San Miguel Milpas Altas. The school was experiencing high failure rates. This year the aid was focused on the New Hope community near Guatemala City, founded 21 years ago by Common Hope after a disastrous mudslide.

The school was built five years later. It was a from-the-ground-up effort to create a model to be emulated in other places over the ensuing years. Teachers were provided with six Dell PCs and peripheral equipment, replacing obsolete technology and enabling them to provide enhanced online learning experiences. This will continue until the Ministry of Education in Guatemala authorizes a return to in-person school attendance.

Elmbrook Rotary Club members will again travel to Guatemala in February of 2023 to catch up with onsite work related to the two remotely-provided projects, return to the usual home building, and participate in other program elements to aid families. For information, navigate to the www.elmbrookrotary.org website or contact any Elmbrook Rotarian.

Every Little Thing

By Mady Kaiser, 4th Grade- Tonawanda

Hey Dad, I appreciate everything you do, even when we are fighting about every little thing. But soon enough we talk, apologize, then laugh. You’re my world, and everything I do... I dedicate to you. Deep down when we’re having a conflict, I know I love you and we’ll apologize about every little thing. No matter the time, no matter the place, I know every little thing will be alright. (DISCLAIMER: ME AND MY DAD DON’T FIGHT, AND THIS IS ONLY A POEM: NOTHING IS TO BE MEANT PERSONALLY.)

Autumn

By Mila, 4th Grade - Tonawanda

Autumn is my best friend
I love spending time with her
Autumn is my best friend
There will never be an end
Autumn is my best friend
I care about her
I like to refer her to kindness
NEVER UNKINDNESS
But at the end of the day
I can’t explain how happy I am to have her as my best friend.

She doesn’t say anything bad,

She knows how to make me glad,
Mila makes me laugh, even if I’m sad,
She’s such a great friend,
She’s so rad,
Mila has a kind heart,
She’s so cool and smart
She’s loyal and kind,
She’s such a awesome friend,
She’s one of my best friends

Potato

By Dhrupud Dimble

4th Grade, Tonawanda Elementary

Since summer is coming, I wrote a poem about the life of a potato, since our family is harvesting potatoes this year. Here’s how it goes:

I’m a potato, look at me!
I’m growing right next to the beans.
Some people think I’m mean,
But that’s not all that I have seen...

One day I was picked, I missed my friends,
The people took me around the bend.
I see a ship, what’s it gonna send?
Is my life coming to an END?

I’m loaded on the big, big, ship,
That building has a giant rip.
I’m in the factory, a guy just slipped.
I’m getting sliced into a CHIP!

I’m a chip, I’m in an ad,
The TV’s really starting to lag.
I’m on a piece of cloth, it looks like a rag.
I’m getting put inside a BAG!

I’m in a bag, inside a bin.
I say, “I feel like I’m a fin!”
The bag opens, light peeks in.
I’m getting eaten by a HUMAN!

The Past

By Sanjana Singh

6th Grade – Brookfield Academy

Arya walked up the creaky attic stairs. She looked down and saw her kitchen through the broken trapdoor. Arya wondered how she had missed the door before. Her head poked into the attic while her hand fumbled around for the light switch. She felt something cling to her hand and screamed. Her hand finally found a string and pulled. A single bulb flickered on, revealing cobwebs on her hand. She brushed them off and looked around. She saw old photos, trunks full of clothes, and letters. She looked down and saw one by her feet. She picked it up and read it. It was a page from her mother’s childhood diary. Arya sat down on a trunk and spent the rest of her day reading the entries. From that day on, Arya made it her goal to read all the entries. Soon enough, Arya did. Then she started writing her own for the generation yet to come.

Book: New From Here by Kelly Yang

Review by Janavi Wagle, 7th Grade, Pilgrim Park Middle School

I like to read diverse books because I enjoy learning about different cultures. I also believe that reading these books is the best way to promote diversity and inclusion from a younger age.

As May was Asian American and Pacific Islanders Heritage Month (AAPI), I want to honor all the AAPI authors that wrote books for young readers. Here I share a new book New From Here, by Kelly Yang, the author of Front Desk, Three Keys, and Room to Dream.

Ten-year-old Knox Wei-Evans is a Chinese-American boy who is always up to no good. He’s a middle child and is constantly annoying his older brother, Bowen, and playing with his younger sister, Lea. In January 2020, when the Covid cases in Hong Kong started to surge, their mother decided that it would be good if they moved to the United States until the virus was gone. However, their American father, a lawyer, is held back at work and can’t join them for a while. Bowen, Knox, and Lea are upset that they are leaving a place where they have so

Celebrating Dad

By Jackson Reuter, 4th Grade -Tonawanda

On June, 19, 2022, we will celebrate my dad. I’ll show you why dads are there when you need them. Me and my dad were driving to the championship game against the “Hot Rods,” and the “Muck Dogs” (That’s the team name). When the game started, I was on third base with sunglasses, and on the first hit of the game, I got hit with a baseball under my nose! It started to bleed, my dad came from the dugout. My dad thought I broke my nose or broke my teeth. But I did not. I just bruised my gum! It hurt so bad I cried so much! And I said to my dad, “Thank you for helping me.” He cared for me so much! After the game, we lost. I also said after the game, “Thank you for coaching my team.” But, I sat out for six innings, and I pushed through for three innings. Also, after the game we got the second place trophy, and then, I got a milkshake. Now I don’t like third base, and sunglasses. This shows dads are the best!

many friends and such fond memories. But their mother is excited to go back to the U.S., where she grew up, went to school, and made memories. She thinks there will be a brighter future in California for her family. Things turn when Knox and his siblings encounter their mother’s job loss, racial stereotypes, and Knox’s presumed diagnosis of ADHD. The three decide to make a plan called Operation Dad to try and help their father get to the Bay Area. What will happen to the Wei-Evans family? Will they be together? Read this book to find out.

I liked how the author, Kelly Yang, doesn’t only talk about how Covid made everything worse but also the racism Asians and Black people were facing. As an Asian-American, I could identify with the characters and the plot of the book.

I would like to say don’t judge a book by its cover. Stereotypes, hatred, xenophobia, and racism can ONLY be ENDED through AWARENESS. Let’s celebrate our diversity by reading diverse books.

I am so happy summer is here

The Amendment to the U.S. Constitution that had the most impact in people’s lives...

By Kelsey Raddemann

7th Grade, Pilgrim Park Middle School

Martin Luther King Jr. once said, “our lives begin to end the day we become silent about things that matter.” I believe that the first Amendment to the U. S. Constitution made the biggest difference in people’s lives because change requires conversations, conversation requires open communication, open communication requires free speech. Therefore, I think free speech drives change. For example, over the years it has allowed women to vote and play the same sports as boys. My parents always say there is never a bad idea or question because it creates conversation and conversation creates change and change leads to progress.

The Book We Wrote

4th Grade - Tonawanda

If you want action and adventure, you should take a look at this preview of “The Adventures of Derek and Jerry: Walkin’ Along the Trail.” Here’s a sneak peek of the book.

Even after the stampede was over, Jerry still thought something was a little off.

When Jerry was picking berries with the rest of the group, he saw a shadow rush past him. He went over to see what it was. Snap! Jerry was bitten by a snake. “Help!” Jerry yelled. After a minute or so, Derek came.

“I was bitten by a snake!” Jerry said, “The venom is pumping through my veins faster than a speeding cheetah!”

“Help!” Derek called, “Jerry’s dying!” Ten people came rushing over.

One man said, “If you want to survive, we might need to cut off your thigh.”

“Jerry, do you think you’re ready for this?” Derek asked.

“I don’t know...I think...”

If you want to see more of these previews, you’re in luck! This is going to be a series! (This is the second book preview.)

Legal Issues

Estate Planning and Remarriage

By Attorney Isabell M. Mueller

Marriage is a time for celebration. However, in the event of a remarriage, it is imperative that you and your future spouse also focus on the less romantic process of redrafting your estate plans. Wisconsin is a Marital Property state, which means your marriage will affect the ownership of all of your assets, regardless of how the asset is titled. This change in ownership will affect not only the division of your assets in the event of a divorce, but also the distribution of your assets upon your death. In many instances it will result in a distribution that is substantially different from what you intended.

You and your future spouse’s respective financial situations and family situations are most likely more complex than when you first married. You probably have more assets and one or both of you may have children from previous relationships. It may, therefore, be in both parties’ interest to execute a prenuptial agreement. In deciding whether or not a prenuptial agreement is appropriate, you and your future spouse should address the following issues:

1. How do the two of you plan to share, or not share, your income and expenses? Do either of you have any significant liabilities for which the other should not be held liable? Health care costs and the cost of long-term care should be a significant part of this discussion.

2. In the event of a divorce, how do you want your assets divided? Do either of you have strong feelings about keeping any assets as your “individual” property in the event of a divorce?
3. In the event of your death, how do you want your property to be divided between your surviving spouse and your children? Do you want the majority, if not all, of the assets going to your surviving spouse? Or do you want your children or other family members receiving a significant share? These are the most significant issues that must be addressed and are also the factors which will determine whether or not a prenuptial agreement is needed. Once these issues have been addressed and, if necessary, a prenuptial agreement has been signed, the rest of your estate planning documents, (Wills, Revocable Trusts, Powers of Attorney, etc.) should be updated to reflect both your decisions and your new marriage.

June

By Satvik R., 4th Grade - Tonawanda

June is the start of summer.
June is very hot.
June is the time to be outside.
June is the time to go to the waterpark.
June is time for vacation.
June is the first month of summer.
June is very sunny.
June is the time to spend time with family.
June feels like you melt.
June is the time to have a water gun flight.
June is rainy.
June has no school.
June is the time to have a break from the cold weather.
June has all the farmer markets opened.
June is the perfect weather for sports.
June is the time for camping.

The Story of Gatorade

A True Story

By Freya Hossain, 4th Grade – Tonawanda

Everyone probably has heard of Gatorade, right? You may even drink it. I’m about to tell you a story on the real way Gatorade was created.

October 2, 1965, A team of scientists gathered around and spoke. “How will we help the Gators win this game?” asked one scientist. “We will make a drink to help the Florida Gators. It will be called Gatorade.” another scientist said. They all got to work. They used a mixture of water, sodium, sugar, potassium, phosphate, and lemon juice.

After days of working, the scientist had the right stuff to help the Gators. It was the day of the game. They put 90 bottles in the van and left for the game.

They then arrived at the stadium. Crowds cheered. They went towards a room where the players sat and waited.

“Hello, why are you here?” asked a player. “We’re here to give you this,” said the scientist. They brought the bottles in the room. “Enjoy!”

A player took a sip and had a big grin on his face, “Start selling these! They’re amazing!” Ever since that day, Gatorade was a success!

Georgia O’Keeffe: Matron Saint of the Brush

Tuesday, June 21, 6:30 p.m.

Called the “Southwest’s Matron Saint of the Brush,” O’Keeffe devoted her life and her art to “distilling in form and color the essence of the world she saw.” Her signature style was “abstracting from nature,” monumentalizing “something small in the interest of surprising viewers into taking time to look at it.” Alfred Steiglitz, her mentor, impresario, and eventual husband, recognized that she was doing something never been done in American art before. Upon seeing her charcoal “Specials” for the first time, he proclaimed, “Finally a woman on paper!”

This 90 minute program will survey the life and works of an American master, from early life in Wisconsin through her formative years in New Mexico, and her prevailing legacy as one of the most significant artists of the 20th century. Presented by Professor Karri Fritz-Klaus. Free to attend. No registration required.

“I declare after all there is no enjoyment like reading! How much sooner one tires of any thing than of a book! –

When I have a house of my own, I shall be miserable if I have not an excellent library.”
